

Rally for Equity at the University of Akron!

Wednesday, May 1
11 a.m. - 2 p.m.

Where: The plaza between the Student Union and Buchtel Hall on the University of Akron's main campus.

Who: All faculty, staff, students and the public are invited to attend in solidarity with UA's part-time faculty whose lives are seriously impacted by a recent administrative decision that cuts their course loads to eight credit hours per semester in order to avoid providing health care benefits required under the Affordable Care Act.

Why: To educate the campus community and the public about the inadequate working conditions and the pay and benefit inequities faced by part-time faculty at UA. UA's approximately 1,000 part-timers make up more than 70% of all faculty on campus, receive no benefits and earn about $2,400 per three-credit course.
